

LANGHORNE MAN IS GIVEN LONG TERM IN EASTERN "PEN"

Clifford Coleman, 17, Pleads Guilty To A Charge of Criminal Assault

GETS 5 TO 10 YEARS

Other Plead Guilty Cases Come Before Judge Keller At Busy Court Day

DOYLESTOWN, April 6—President Judge Hiram H. Keller had a busy day in Bucks County Court yesterday when a large quantity of miscellaneous business, including a number of plead guilty cases, were disposed of.

Wasting no words or comment on Clifford Coleman, 17, colored, of Langhorne, except remarking that "Your offense is so heinous this court will not even comment," Judge Keller sentenced the defendant to five to ten years in the Eastern State Penitentiary, after he had pleaded guilty to a case of criminal assault.

Melvin Fekkes, 17, of Philadelphia, who pleaded guilty to a criminal assault upon a 9-year-old Doylestown girl, was sentenced by Judge Keller to the Huntingdon Reformatory for an undetermined sentence. The Court remarked, "It is not safe to let you out at large and I hope that the place you are going will result in some medical treatment that may be able to help you." The little girl was saved from further assault by Officer "Jerry" Conlton, of the Doylestown police force, who was horseback riding in the vicinity of a local country club at the time the crime was committed.

Two Edison youths were given another chance in court yesterday when they pleaded guilty before Judge Keller to charges of stealing old iron and junk and selling it to junk dealers in Doylestown and Doylestown Township.

The boys, William Jacobs, 17, and Walter Clifton Sykes, 18, were placed on probation for a period of five years, with Sheriff Horace E. Gwiner as the probation officer. Sykes' Sunday school teacher, Mrs. Walton, of Edison, came to his assistance and promised to look after the boy, informing the Court that Walter would have to do everything he directed or he would be turned over to the probation officer immediately. Walter appeared in court with no witness, his mother and father, and grandfather, failing to appear in his behalf.

"I'll never go back on Mrs. Walton," I'll go straight and do the right thing," Sykes said to Judge Keller. Jacobs also promised to "go straight" and take a job that has been promised him on a farm.

Trooper Felix R. Gowan, of the Doylestown sub-station of State Police, who arrested the boys, informed the Court that Jacobs had been arrested in 1934 when he was placed on probation. Sykes, he said, was arrested several years ago on suspicion of stealing some gasoline.

The two boys, Trooper Gowan informed the Court, stole some junk from National Farm School, some window sashes from the rear of the Barrett Hardware Store, Doylestown, and dismantled some machinery from a storage shed at Rutland, from which place they fled when they were scared away.

The boys told the Court that they sold the junk to Solomon Catz, Doylestown township junk dealer, and to the Doylestown Junk Company located in the old Railroad House, operated by John Adis. Trooper Gowan informed Judge Keller that both Catz and Adis admitted buying junk from the boys on numerous occasions. Adis, he testified, loaned the boys his truck on the occasion that they went to Farm School to steal iron which they later sold to Adis for 25 cents per hundred pounds, the low rate being due to the fact that something was taken off for truck hire.

"Catz told us that if we had any junk he would give us as much as the fellow in Doylestown," Jacobs testified. "Catz never asked us how old we were. He knew me practically all my life."

Jacobs denied that he and Sykes dismantled any machinery at Rushland storage shed. He said they went in the shed on a rainy day because the top of Sykes' car leaked. He admitted that they had piled up some small pieces of iron in the shed with the purpose of stealing it, but were scared away.

Sykes informed Judge Keller that none of the junk men to whom they sold the stolen wares, asked them their age before buying.

Both Adis and Catz were recently arrested on charges of buying junk from minors and were released under bail for the next term of criminal court.

"I am at a loss to know what to do with you boys," Judge Keller remarked, after the hearing. "You deserve both pity and condemnation. You, Sykes, seem to have too much lip; you think you are smart. You, Jacobs, have had one chance before and did not seem to appreciate what was done for you. I have my suspicion as to what induced both of you to engage in this junk business in a wholesale manner. I am going to take a chance on you, temporarily. I was tempted at first to send you away, but the fact that a Sunday School teacher, Mrs. Walton, has taken an interest in Sykes, has

HULMEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. James McDermott and family have changed their place of residence from Main street to Parkland.

The card club of which she is a member will be entertained this evening by Mrs. Charles Afflerbach, Jr.

MAKE MARKED PROGRESS, WILD FLOWER PRESERVE

Project of Planting of Section Is In Charge of Professor E. T. Wherry

TRAILS ARE DEVELOPED

Marked progress has been made during the past year in the planting of various flowers throughout the Bowman's Hill State Wildflower Preserve, at Washington Crossing Park.

The project was in charge of Professor Edgar T. Wherry, botanist from the University of Pennsylvania, with aid being given by Mrs. Abram Ross, Mrs. Lynwood R. Holmes, W. Wilson Heintish and Mrs. William Tinsman.

Serving on the Washington Crossing Park Commission at the present time are: Dr. John A. Flood, superintendent of the Council for the Preservation of park; Mrs. Zantinger, president of National Beauty in Penna.; Mrs. Thomas Ross, of Doylestown, and James Bush Brown, director of the School of Horticulture for Women at Ambler, all of whom are deeply interested in the development of this wildflower preserve.

The State Department of Forests and Waters has signified in many ways its interest in this development in a State Park. Eric Von Hausswolff, Director of the Park Bureau, has frequently visited the preserve and is giving valuable assistance in its development. A detailed draft of plant markers was designed under his direction.

Through the co-operation of Dr. John A. Flood, a WPA project has been secured and about six thousand feet of trails have been cleared and partially planted. This project is under the direction of Dr. Frank D. Baldwin. Dr. Wherry has developed a system of marking that will be used throughout the preserve. A stone marker is to be placed every fifty feet along the trails indicating the distance from the entrance of that trail.

A list of the plant material in each section will be published as a guide to the preserve. Maps are now being prepared for use in these guide pamphlets. Fifty-three plantings have been made by Girl Scouts and garden club, as well as individual memorial plantings.

Dr. Wherry has developed a trail to be known as the Edgar T. Wherry trail where are to be found twenty-seven species of native ferns and several fern dahlias. This is one of the most popular trails.

The Moss Pink Bank, the gift of school children, has been built and planted. The Fortnightly Club of Narbeth has presented native hollies and it is hoped this will develop into a sizable grove of these beautiful trees in time.

The Mary K. Parry Trail started December first is to be an Educational Trail planted by the women of Bucks County in honor of Mrs. Henry Parry, president of Pa. Garden Federation. On the bank beside a wide path a background of hemlocks has been planted. Below the hemlocks, boulders and dirt pockets are being arranged where different clubs will assemble small groups of our more common native flowers and ferns. These will all be marked for easy identification.

The park also offers a splendid bird sanctuary with its wooded section and plentiful water supply consisting of springs and large and small creeks.

Phoebies, robins, purple grackles and blue birds were noted among the earlier arrivals from the South and nest-hatches are still feeding on the insect eggs infesting the trees.

Gifts Are Showered On Localite At A Party

Miss Edith Potena, 340 Penn street, and Miss Frances Tamburello, 408 Dorrance street, gave a surprise miscellaneous shower Saturday evening for Miss Mary Tamburello, in Beneficial Hall. The guests were assembled when Miss Tamburello arrived. As she honored one opened her gifts, she was showered with confetti, which had been concealed in the ceiling amid the decorations which were in peach and blue tones.

Games and dancing were enjoyed and refreshments served. About 50 guests attended from Bristol, Philadelphia and Trenton.

LORRAINE BOBBS WINS $25 SPECIAL PRIZE IN HEAVIEST ELECTION VOTING

Fervent activity marked the end of the special-$25-prize-week of The Favorite Baby Election, and not until late last night could the winning baby's name be ascertained, due to the tremendous amount of votes cast in the ballot box at election headquarters.

Little Lorraine Bobbs recaptured first place on the Honor Roll, as well as the special prize of $25.00; this little miss had the keenest competition in being named "winner," as there were several babies near enough with their various vote totals to cause the campaign management to "check and double check" before the winner's name could be announced.

Marie Pietro, who has consistently remained near the top of the list, dropped into second position for the week, while Kenneth Hibbs finished the hard-fought week in third place, with pretty, one year old Harold Loud coming from sixteenth place into fourth.

Leaders' positions on the Honor Roll are ones of uneasiness when they consider the terrific pace the election is now assuming, and such sterling campaigners as George Schumaker, Harry Robinson, Bobby Sutton, Jeanne Harris, Billy Smyrl, Kay Crawford, Frank Aita and others, are all moving along at a fast clip, with well balanced campaigns; other babies on the Honor Roll last week and able to remain on it this week are: Ernest Mari, Gladys Yorty, Joan VanZant, Beverly Ann Bintliff, Dorothy Keers and Patricia Phipps.

Other changes are to be noted in the general line-up of the Honor Roll, with some babies being on it for the first time, others being dropped from this coveted group for the first time, and still others no longer in the race at all; it is the sincere aim of the election department to carry the largest number of names possible in the list, but as time draws near for the close of the election only those names of babies will be carried in whom real interest is shown by each week's votes.

Babies who gained places on the roll include Mary Ann Goslin, Russell Gorton and Alexander Monti.

The progress several babies have

Invite Women To Join Auxiliary To Aid Scouts

ANDALUSIA, Apr. 6—The monthly meeting of the Women's Auxiliary of the Andalusia troop, Boy Scouts of America, will occur on Thursday evening in the Lennig Cabin, Bristol Pike, at eight o'clock.

The Auxiliary has decided to admit to membership all women interested in Boy Scout work. At this week's meeting plans will be made for Bucks County Council Boy Scout Day in Doylestown, April 10th; and also for Memorial Day.

Support is sought for boys in the Cub Pack, Boy Scout and Seascout units.

BUCKS COUNTY SCOUTING SHIPS ENJOY APRIL FOOL'S PARTY AT LANGHORNE

LANGHORNE, Apr. 6—There was a delightful gathering at the Memorial House, Saturday evening, to enjoy the April Fool's Party of the Ships of the Bucks County Scouting Council. The host of the evening was the Seascout Ship "The Yankee Clipper," Skipper Charles K. Markley, and Mates Marsden Strathie and Eugene Boyd.

First place in the events during the evening was a tie between Croydon and Milford, second place was taken by Andalusia, and third was Sellersville-Perkasie. Mermaids from the Ships had a number of events in which first place went to Morrisville, second to Sellers-Perk, and third to Bristol.

Bristol Ship members were on the Championship Rabbit Ball team with W. Campbell playing second base, and W. Albright on third. J. Wilk, a Seascout from Andalusia, played a fine game at first base. Losers included members of the Croydon Ship with Langhorne and Milford. Herbert Audsley played first base, and George Stricker gave an exhibition of pitching for Croydon.

DRIVE IS STARTED FOR GEORGE SCHOOL FUNDS

Seek To Raise $200,000 For Teachers' Retirement, Endowment, Power Plant

OFFICIALLY OPENS

NEWTOWN, April 6—Formal opening of the drive to raise $200,000 for George School occurred yesterday.

This sum is sought to be used for erection of a new power plant, to form an endowment fund and for teachers' retirement.

The work of securing this fund in Bucks County is assigned to Robert K. Tomlinson and Wallace G. Murfit, both of Newtown; and William Reeder, Langhorne.

William Roberts and Mary Sullivan Patterson, George School graduates, are two of the leaders around Philadelphia and vicinity. Marianna G. Packer, also a former George School student, and at present head of the physical training department in Trenton State Teachers' College, will have charge of the drive in Trenton and vicinity.

The three centres for the drive are Washington, Philadelphia and New York. The Washington drive was launched two weeks ago, New York area will follow Philadelphia.

Dr. Curtis C. Eves, of Philadelphia, is chairman of the George School Fund Committee, and Robert E. Atkinson, of Wrightstown, Pa., is director of the George School Fund. Eleanor W. Twining is executive secretary for the committee.

The following persons constitute the remaining officers and committee:

BENSALEM ESTABLISHES URSINUS SCHOLARSHIP

To Encourage Pupils of High Achievement to Continue Their Education

IN THE AMOUNT OF $150

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, April 6—Superintendent of Bensalem Township public schools, Samuel K. Faust, has been informed by F. I. Sheeder, registrar of Ursinus College, that recision has been reached to establish in Bensalem school a scholarship at Ursinus College.

The purpose of this scholarship, it is stated, is to encourage students of high achievement to continue their education at that institution of higher learning.

The scholarship is to be known as "The Ursinus College Scholarship," and will be in the amount of $150.

It is open to both young men and young women students under the following conditions:

(1) The Principal, or other responsible administrative officer shall, on or before May 1, nominate to the committee on scholarships of Ursinus College two or more members of the graduating class who are adjudged to meet the qualifications of high scholarship and promise of usefulness. The nominations will be supported by scholastic records and such other pertinent data of a personal nature as the school can supply from its records.

(2) The nominees will be expected to take a psychological examination, and such other examinations as may be deemed necessary by the committee on scholarships. These examinations will be held at Ursinus College on or before June 1st, at which time the committee will also interview the candidates. The awards will be made subsequent to June 1st by the committee on scholarships. The committee reserves the right to reject any nominee for reasons of its own.

(3) Since these scholarships will be granted on the basis of superior ability and merit, it is understood that the college may withdraw an award at any time should a recipient fail to maintain satisfactory scholastic standing or for other reasons become an undesirable student.

(4) A student who holds one of these scholarships and who may seek to transfer before graduation to another institution of undergraduate standing will be required to refund to Ursinus College the total amount of scholarship aid received up to the time of withdrawal.

(5) Scholarships will be continued from year to year throughout the entire college course of the student, or until graduation, provided the recipient's standing and deportment are satisfactory.

Food Stores To Start Half Day Closing Tomorrow

Food stores here will inaugurate half-day closing schedule beginning tomorrow. Most of the stores will close at one o'clock while others will close at noon. The half-day closing schedule is also being observed in Philadelphia and the custom is becoming general throughout this section.

With the closing of the food stores for a half-day the clerks and others employed in the stores are given opportunity to have more time to themselves and the shorter hours are much appreciated by the store employees.

The public, it is believed, will readily adopt itself to the shorter hours and shopping will be done during the morning.

PAIR ON HONEYMOON AND DRIVER OF CAR KILLED AS TWO CARS AND A TRUCK CRASH NEAR SOUTH LANGHORNE

Couple Were Wedded in New York Yesterday — Two Cars Sideswiped and One Goes Across Road in Front of Large Truck—Occupants of Other Car and Driver of Truck Escape Injury

SOUTH LANGHORNE, April 6—A bride and groom on their honeymoon, and a man acting as their chauffeur, were killed in an automobile crash on the Lincoln Highway, about a half-mile north of here, last night.

The newlyweds, according to a marriage certificate found in the wreckage, were Miss Ruth Isabell Beebe and Arthur Nolan, both of New York. They were married yesterday in St. Paul's M. E. Church, New York City. The third victim of the crash was George Kapp, 31, driver of the car. Kapp resided in Long Island City.

Nolan and his bride occupied the rear seat of the car, while Kapp was operating the machine.

The Kapp car and a machine occupied by three colored occupants are said to have sideswiped. The Kapp machine is then said to have gone across the highway directly into the path of a large truck.

N. J. Legislature Passes Reward Bill

Trenton, N. J., Apr. 6—Spurred by declarations that "the good faith of the State was involved," both houses of the New Jersey legislature today had passed a bill to pay a $25,000 reward to the persons giving information leading to the arrest of the kidnapper and slayer of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

Although the legislature at the time of the crime in 1932 voted to present the reward, the money never was appropriated until the present bill was passed.

A letter received by the American Legion Post, aptly sums up the situation regarding the drive, which is now being made to raise funds to purchase equipment for the Cadet Corps:

"In view of the fact that one of the prime objectives of the American Legion is its youth movement, it seems especially appropriate at this time that the members of the Robert W. Bracken Post should be commended. By their faithful and untiring effort to assist in the maintenance of the Bristol Cadet Corps, they set a splendid example to the community of Bristol.

"Anyone, whether connected with the Legion or not, could serve their community in no better way than by assisting financially in this most worthy enterprise."

When we as citizens stop to contemplate what a loss the Cadet Corps would be to the town, there is not one of us but would openly regret such a contingency. Then, too, when we realize that such a situation is facing us,

The colored occupants of the other car were not injured, and gave their names as: Samuel Wells, 37, of 226 Witherspoon street, Princeton, driver; his daughter, Ada, 15, and Dorothy Jones, 15, of 228 Witherspoon street, Bridgeport, Conn., driver of the truck, also escaped injury.

Wells and Calla were arrested by Corporal R. D. Evans, of the Oxford Valley Highway Patrol, on charges of involuntary manslaughter. They were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Daniel Krause, of South Langhorne, and held in $2,000 bail each.

The car containing the New Yorkers was proceeding toward Philadelphia, while Wells and the children were on their way to Princeton when the crash occurred at 8.25 o'clock. The truck was proceeding in the rear of the Wells car.

According to authorities the two cars sideswiped, but it was not definitely known which driver was responsible. The car operated by Kapp shot across the road directly into the path of the oncoming truck, police say. The collision sent the forepart of the Knapp machine under the front of the big truck. The three victims in the sedan were pinned in the wreckage. The Wells car suffered but little damage, but the front of the truck was badly damaged.

Fearing the cars might become ignited, the South Langhorne Fire Company was summoned to the scene. Its services, however, were not needed.

Dr. James Lawler, of Bristol, deputy Bucks County coroner, had the bodies removed to the morgue of Roscoe L. Horner at Langhorne. The victims suffered fractured skulls, broken legs and arms and other injuries. The woman also received a broken back.

According to credentials found on Kapp he was a car inspector for the Interborough Rapid Transit Company, while Nolan was a clerk in the employ of the same company.

EXPLANATION DUE

The Treasury's apparent over-estimate of receipts for the present fiscal year is a not very encouraging augury for the ensuing fiscal year, in which the President has expected the budget to reach a balance.

For some reason, hopes as to income tax collections on income realized in the calendar year 1936 failed to materialize. With the first quarterly payments on 1936 income now all in, receipts are $427,000,000 above the same period of the preceding fiscal year but still far below the bumper expectations of the Treasury. The January budget message predicted collections by June 30 would exceed those of last fiscal year by $946,000,000. Receipts from miscellaneous excise taxes also have fallen below estimates, creating a probability that total revenues for the fiscal year may be anywhere from 15 to 20 per cent below the amount expected.

This miscalculation bears directly on the estimates for next fiscal year to the extent that income tax receipts in two quarters of that year also will be based on 1936 income. It is possible the estimates for next year still may be borne out, if business volume increases extraordinarily. But that assumes conditions not counted on even in the over-optimistic January budget.

It would seem the Treasury owes Congress, which now is working on that budget, some sort of explanation. This is not, of course, the first time in history that the Treasury has gone astray in its forecasts. The budgets of the 1920s habitually underestimated revenues and that of 1923-24 did so to the tune of almost 20 per cent. It can readily be imagined that Congress was pretty angry over that; yet it would be justified in getting even more excited in the present instance, which, in view of the existing fiscal situation, is considerably more serious.

As a matter merely of prudent management, Congress should ask the Treasury to explain the sources of its miscalculation and the effect on its estimates for 1937-38.

SCIENCE AND LAWYERS

It is fortunate for the cause of culture and of civilization generally that the search for truth has not been subjected to the restrictions put upon evidence in our modern courts. When science goes out after truth it scorns nothing, however remote, that may have some bearing.

Galileo accepted the testimony of a swinging lamp to get a truth making possible the invention of clocks. Any lawyer would have told him the lamp is not a competent witness outside of matters of illumination. And Newton gets the truth about gravity from an apple—a common pie or cider apple not to be recognized in court apart from these humble limitations. And half or more of the ponderous evidence which Darwin collected to prove his elaborate theory of the Descent of Man was the merest hearsay about creatures that never nessed in the affairs of man at all.

It is only when the investigation involves the lives of men and women and the safety of society that rules are made to ignore all but the primary and directly pertinent evidence.

The Dutch took Holland. And with the new embargo and some luck, who knows but what the Spaniards may capture Spain.

REQUESTED RECIPES

Ample time to enjoy a delicious roast of pork loin remains before steaming Summer days bring thoughts of cool salads and lighter meals.

To enjoy English-style crackling on roast pork, the roast must be ordered in advance from the butcher. Of course baked apples, or applesauce, should flank the roast. Remember to give pork ample roasting time.

Pork loin chops may be varied in flavor by covering with seasonings, or inserting tiny dabs of onion stuffing. Have the butcher cut the chops extra thick and make the incisions for stuffing, if the chops are baked.

Here is a flavorful stuffing for baked pork chops: Cook one chopped onion slowly in butter. To four tablespoons of minced onion, add one-half cup bread crumbs, one-half teaspoon chili powder, one-half teaspoon salt, and a few drops of milk or cream. Stuff tightly and fasten opening with toothpicks.

Spanish chefs are generous with this spread on the chops, before they are placed on the broiler: Work four tablespoons of butter to a cream, add one-half clove crushed garlic, one teaspoon each minced parsley and chili powder, two tablespoons of lemon juice and one-half teaspoon salt. If these "frosted" chops are cut thick, start them in a hot oven and finish under the broiler.

Sardine Treats

Sardine treats build up resistance, as well as being appetizing. Consider them as health foods, rich in Vitamin A, as well as savory snacks.

Horseshadish is excellent for flavoring sardines. Mash sardines and flavor with lemon juice and horse-radish. Spread on thin squares of fresh bread. Roll and flatten with toothpicks. Brush with melted butter and toast quickly under the broiler.

"Rich Cargoes" by Henry C. Rowland

SYNOPSIS

Enroute from Yokohama to San Francisco, Sandy Crewe, young scientist who recently amassed a fortune from the discovery of a silk stocking preserver, meets elderly Colonel Carlton, wealthy eccentric. The Colonel plans to retire to his island in the Bahamas. Due to stress of business, Sandy declines the Colonel's invitation to visit him, and thereby offends the old man. Just before the steamer lands, Sandy falls in love with a picture of the Colonel's niece and vainly asks the Colonel to re-invite him. Undaunted by the refusal, Sandy arrives at the Bahamas two months later for what he terms "a personal mission of apology for an error in etiquette," but in reality to meet Carlton's lovely niece, Isabel. While the Colonel, Isabel and Sandy are talking, a strange vessel looms on the horizon. Fearing it may be someone out of his adventurous past seeking revenge, the Colonel sends for his machine gun. Imagine the surprise of everyone when the gang-plank is lowered and an elephant lumbers down it. The animal bellows with delight over the tropical surroundings.

CHAPTER VI

Sandy scarcely dared look at the Colonel. At the first appearance of the elephant, the old gentleman had leaned forward gripping the arm of the wicker chair with crushing force. A moment later found him striving to rise, but the effort seemed beyond his powers of coordination. He sank back again, staring, bushy eyebrows working up and down.

As the beast began to trumpet the Colonel was suddenly swept by a hurricane of mirth. He roared in a fashion to rival the outburst of this princely gift bestowed upon him. Wallowing back in his chair he gave free open vent to this explosion so that no dangerous pressure on aged arteries was exerted. It was like the firing of salutes from an unwadded cannon wide of bore. Sandy, watching him a little anxiously, was further relieved to discover in this uproarious mirth not only the expression of a saturated sense of humor at the spectacle but a gleefulness, something close akin to the unbounded delight of an enraptured child at a spectacular present that was at the same time infinitely amusing, or rather that of a group of children.

Sandy looked at Isabel. The beautiful lady was convulsed. He had missed her first deep look of perfect comprehension, and he got now only the gleam of laughter by which it had been followed, at the bellows of the peace offering and scamping of the blacks. Thus entirely relieved, Sandy felt free to indulge his own sense of the ridiculous, and the Bahamians, with whom hilarity lies always just under the pigmented cuticle, taking their cue from the masters, had quickly turned from terror to a frenzy of delight.

Therefore for a few moments that whole place was shaken and convulsed as if in a coronation of the High God of Mirth. From the yacht, the tug, the beach and the broad verandah, even back under the palms where the women had called came no other sounds than those of shrieking laughter. The negroes flung themselves down in exorcisms, rolling over and over. And lordling it in this joyful orobstration the elephant pealed on its paeons of praise.

Then suddenly these stopped, as if aware that there was dignity in jeopardy. Or perhaps the scent of sugar cane, bananas, fragrant apple-pieing maize in the fields not far away suggested more serious if equally enjoyable recreation. The big trunk began to weave questingly and the gigantic head was cocked a little to one side.

The Colonel staggered to his feet, chest heaving convulsively, tears streaming down his cheeks. He looked at Sandy with a gasp.

"You young scoundrel. Are you trying to kill me? I'm in luck to live through this. For a man of my age it's unsafe."

"Do you like him, Colonel?" Sandy asked, anxiously.

"Like him? That's not the word. I'm mad about him. He's gorgeous, magnificent, stupendous and . . . and cute. The jolly old beggar. Look, how tickled he is. Happy to the

For Mouse had begun to swing round his ponderous bulk, side-stepping nervously, his head slanting, a rolling eye on the barge that had brought him. The short, squat man in the military cap called some order to the captain of the barge who nodded and stepped into the dark interior. The next moment there emerged a snow-white Angora goat with wide branching horns, ornately gilded. This handsome animal blinked, wagged its long pointed ears, gave a muffled bleat, then walked sedately down the gangplank to join its comrade; Mouse stressed the goat with its trunk, then came to rest. A fresh murmur of ecstasy passed through the admiring throng.

"That's his pal," Sandy explained. "They're inseparable."

The Colonel gave a deep sigh. "Well, well . . . a dream come true."

"I think you are more dangerous than I could ever have believed," she said.

toenails. They're emotional old dears. They only quiver that way from a full heart. Here, you Sambo . . . get some coconuts . . . banana . . . some sugar cane . . ."

He fell back into his chair, wiping his eyes.

"Then that's all right," Sandy said, as if to himself. The Colonel whipped round.

"All right? Royally right. Now there's a present for you. Here, I've got to bid him welcome. What's his name?"

"Wha—att?"

"Maharajah. But he answers to the name of Mouse. Better go slow on the collation, hadn't you? Leave it to Mike."

"Who's Mike . . . the mahout?"

If I'd done it myself they'd have locked me up, attacked my will, declared me a victim of G. P. Folie de grandeur. But you can get away with it. A man can have his little joke. And they can't claim the victim of it is in his deluge if he does on six tons of elephant thrust on him unawares. I understand elephants. Many's the night I've slept on 'em, the old darlings. Now I'll totter down and say salaam . . ."

He got up and went down the steps. Sandy ventured to glance at Isabel. She gave him a veiled look.

"Well . . ."

"What do you think?"

"I think that you are more dangerous than I could ever have believed. And like your outrageous present."

"Docile . . . benevolent, apt to be loyal and steadfast and affectionate . . ."

"No. An elephant on our hands." (To be continued)

Dear Friends:

Color ensembles no longer are restricted to feminine costumes.

Home appliances have gone color-conscious, as exhibited proudly at a recent Housewares Exhibit in Manhattan. Actually, the "ensemble" theme was the most significant trend seen at the big exhibition, aside from the ever-present streamlines.

Designers and manufacturers of household appliances at last have decided to work together for the happiness of the housewife, who has been distracted by the garden riot of colors in various utensils and accessories.

The new co-operation means that uniform color tones have been developed so that the blue of one appliance will match the blue of another. In other words, the housewife needs only to decide on her ensemble and the shops will supply a complete line of accessories in the chosen shade of the dominating color or colors. Even a mop and a toaster now can be co-ordinated for color.

Fashion's latest whim for a charming kitchen is delphinium blue. Combined with white, it is found on all kitchen utensils, either as a solid color, or in dainty floral designs. Vivid reds and greens are abdicating in favor of soft pastel shades.

Streamlining is sweeping the housewares field, even as it has swept away with fast trains. Tea kettles, double boilers, pots and saucepans are becoming more practical and economical, because their new streamlines enable them to utilize every available heating surface. The new styles are more sanitary, too, because they are easier to keep clean. Covers fit more closely to retain all the good flavor.

As for featured glassware, glass is growing enormously important, blooming right out on top of the stove in frying pans and double boilers, as well as in many new types of baking dishes. Easy-to-clean, convenient, attractive glassware really serves five purposes. It is utilized for mixing, cooking, serving, storing and reheating. And how it does cut down the dish-washing! Handles on the new glass skillets are heat-resistant.

A welcome addition to the electric toaster is a removable crumb tray at the bottom. A new super-toaster walks away with the dough by toasting three pieces of bread on both sides at one time.

Carpet sweepers no longer are heavy contraptions to lug around. They are lighter in weight, have kneecaps and are self-adjusting.

Ingenuity of manufacturers is seen in such ideas as a set of self-measuring saucepans, clearly marked on the sides from one to six cups, and graded in size. The saucepans are in heavy aluminum too and nest together neatly for storing purposes.

A similar work-saving and dish-saving idea is carried out in a set of three mixing bowls of opaque jade glass. These bowls are accurately made in three quart, one quart and the pint size is a measuring cup, which really is a small bowl with a handle and spout, graded clearly from one-half to two cups. Such a nest is a welcome gift, and is useful with an electric mixer.

Statistics show that modern women are longer-lived than the pioneer woman who faced privations and dangers, and beyond a doubt these increasingly wonderful developments can take a large share of the credit for the added years of comfort.

made recently to gain leading positions has encouraged scores of others this week to declare through their "campaign managers" that they may expect to leave nothing undone to gain the titular honors, the magnificent loving-cup with the baby's name engraved thereon, and the cash award which offers a bright future with an unbreakable guarantee.

If you are looking forward to April 24th when the election results will be written in such a fashion that they will never be forgotten, don't forget that what you do now, today, and during the following days this present week will determine whether you are to share in that lasting glory of seeing your baby crowned the favorite of them all.

Do your best work for the election today. You'll be the happier for it later.

This is the last week votes will count four times their face value; they will be permanently reduced after the coming Saturday night.

Russo-Japanese Relations Worse

Tokyo, Apr. 6.—Russo-Japanese relations are gradually growing worse, War Minister Sugiyama declared today in an address before a conference of divisional commanders. He emphasized it was necessary to arouse the nation to the gravity of the situation.

Tangier, Apr. 6.—Two Spanish government destroyers again bombarded Senta, Morocco, last night. It was reported here today.

ENTRIES IN BABY ELECTION

The names of the ACTIVE babies entered in the Favorite Baby Election up to last night follow. The next tabulation of the coupons will be made Monday, April 12th. The names of those babies having less than 100,000 votes have been placed upon the "Waiting List" and their names will be reinstated in the regularly published list when the total reaches that figure. Be sure to ask for "Baby Votes" when making purchases or paying accounts at the co-operating stores and cast them for YOUR Favorite. Phone 2122 for particulars regarding the election or call at Baby Headquarters, 218 Mill street.

YOUR DOCTOR AND YOU!

You hear many stories and many comments regarding the services of the Doctor, and how high priced a Doctor is. But, how seldom do you hear of a physician retiring on what he has made from practicing medicine?

What does the cost of a physician really amount to for the average family over a period of years? Just about one-tenth as much as the cost of operating an automobile!

Many people complain about the cost of prescriptions. Yet the average prescription costs about as much as the average packaged medicine of its equivalent size.

Your health is the business of your physician. And your Rexall Druggist is trained to assist the physician.

Prescriptions at our Rexall Drug Store are double-checked to assure accuracy. Only fresh ingredients are used. Bring your prescriptions to Dries' Cut Rate Rexall Drug Store at 310 Mill Street.—(Advertisement.)

HIGH SCHOOL NINE OPENS BASEBALL SEASON HERE TODAY, PLAYING THE N. J. S. D., TRENTON; VETERAN BATTERY

Baseball enthusiasts and followers in this vicinity will get a first hand view of Coach Dougherty's 1937 edition of the Cardinal and Gray ball club when they open the season with the N. J. S. D. of Trenton here today.

The Cardinals' line up will be composed of half veterans and half "rookies." Of the familiar figures who will take the field in their old places are Harry Baurtho who will take up his chores in centerfield where he left off last year. Harry again will be counted on to advance his mates around to the pay-off station as he will hit in the "clean-up" position this season again. Other regulars from last year's team among the starters this year are Charlie Hughes who will perform from the hot corner this season after having taken charge of initial sack last year. Then there will be Pete DeLuca of the daisy pickers (not at B. H. S.) who will chase flies in the territory behind first base.

Finally the battery will be composed of veterans. Of course the reliable and peppery Jesse VanZant again will handle the slants of the mound corps at the backstop post. Jesse participated in every game last year and is expected to do so again this season. The other part of the battery will be composed of no less than a trio of hurlers made up of Hystie Grimes, who moved up from the relief flingers last year to a starting berth this year and is expected to make good. The second of the group is Carl Leinhausner, a member of the Legion staff last year where he won fame, who now gets his chance for the Cardinals with whom he hopes to win more fame.

The third of the trio will be the ace of the staff who bore the brunt of the corps last year in pitching over half of the games and winning six of the seven games credited to him—Bill Gallagher. As last year much will be expected of him again this season and upon whom Coach will pin the team's hopes of a championship aided by Grimes and Leinhausner. If nine innings are played Grimes, Leinhausner and Gallagher will each hurl for 3 innings in the named order.

The new members who will take the field for the first time as a regular are Charlie Locke, portside hitter and thrower, who will guard the initial sack. Jack Spencer and Hardy Johnson, the keystone combination, and Freddie Kalencki in the outer garden. Kalencki starred for the Legion squad last year and like Leinhausner will further add to his name as a member of the local outfit. Spencer saw some service last season understudying Johnny Stallone now and then, but Johnson is a new addition to the squad.

The probable line-up for Bristol today will read as follows:

DeLuca rf, Walencki lf, Johnson ss, Baurtho cf, Spencer 2b, VanZant c, Locke 1b, Hughes 3b, Grimes p, Leinhausner p, Gallagher p.

BOWLING ASSOCIATION TO MEET HERE TONIGHT

A meeting of the Bristol Bowling Association will be called into session by President Herb Yates tonight at 7:30 p. m., at the Bristol Recreation Center. The time will be occupied with discussions on all types of post-season affairs and the annual banquet to be held by the Association at the close of the season.

Due to the meeting being called at 7:30 it will be necessary to set the time for all match games scheduled for tonight to be set back until nine p. m., in order that all representatives of the various teams may be present at this all-important meeting.

It is necessary that all representatives be present so as to discuss fully final plans for the annual bowling match which is to be held at the close of the season. Other important topics to be discussed are the type of affair to be held and discussion on various kinds of post-season tournaments.

Since the affair held at Langhorne Farms for men and women in mid-season was such a success, considerable comment has been passed on the subject and many people desire to conduct a similar affair instead of holding a stag banquet which is the usual custom. It is also the desire of the officials to discuss the matter of the annual post season tournament among the various teams and players. The usual form of tournament is the popular and most acceptable type known as the handicap sweepstakes. Hence it is important that all representatives of the teams be present to decide this question.

This week the regular scheduled American and National Leagues will close their seasons. Play-offs of the winners of each half in their respective leagues will follow for the championship of their circuit. The final week finds the Elks at the top of the American League ladder which they have clinched, while Tullytown has virtually settled the issue in the National League, needing only one more victory to actually win it.

The Bristol League will close its season next week but the A. & P. five are so far out in front that it would take the second place Rohm & Haas team a month to catch up if the chain store team lost all of its games. However, they have the second half race sewed up in the bag nearly a month ago, and since they captured the initial half title also, there will therefore be no Bristol League play-offs this year as A. & P. players are the recognized champions of the Bristol Bowling Association for 1936-37.

Bristol League	Won	Lost	%
A. & P.	48	4	.923
Rohm & Haas	31	21	.596
Elks	26	26	.500
Burlington	21	31	.404
Pine's	9	43	.173

Except in the Bristol League where the respective positions are practically settled as they will stand at the end of the campaign, other clubs in both the American and Federal Leagues will battle down to the last game in order to displace the team ahead of them. This may easily be done in many instances where there is only one or two games separating them from the team in front of them. The final standings will be published some time next week or thereafter.

Residents Respond to Cadet Drive For Funds

unless the people rally to the support of the Legion Post, it should be an incentive to every appreciative citizen to contribute something to this most worthy cause.

Over fifty years ago, Bristol, with a population of not more than 5,000, supported two bands and a drum corps. These organizations were dependent upon the support of the public, and many of our older citizens will remember the fairs that were held in Caber's Hall, to raise money to purchase uniforms and other equipment for these musical aggregations. Oftimes a thousand dollars or more would be raised through one effort.

Today, with a population of 11,000, the citizens of Bristol are asked to contribute to the maintenance of a musical organization that has brought more glory and renown to the town than any other local organization that ever existed in the community. In addition, this organization is composed of boys who attend our local schools, and whose training and efficiency is made possible through the youth movement which is sponsored by the local Legion Post.

A short time ago a group of boys visited Radio City in New York. When the gentleman in charge asked them where they were from and they replied "Bristol," he said: "You have a fine organization of Boys in Bristol called the Cadet Corps. I have heard them play and the town should be proud of them." Whereupon, several of the boys in the group stepped forward, and with a full measure of pride said: "We are members of the Cadet Corps." When we learn from incidents like this, what a splendid reputation the boys have won on their visits outside the town, and what honor they have brought to the community, through their good behavior and efficient playing, it raises the question as to whether the citizens of Bristol really appreciate the existence of such an organization within the town.

That the drive that is now in progress is a popular one, is evidenced by the indorsement that it is receiving from the citizens all over the town. Kind words, however, are not the only support that is needed now. Money is what is needed most, and if the Cadet Corps is to continue in existence, it will depend upon the generosity and liberality of the public. It is a pleasure to note, that in the list of contributions received this past week, is one from one of our newest industries.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Jennings and family, Lancaster, spent Saturday visiting Mr. and Mrs. John Wichser, Dorrance street.

Insurgents Press Toward Bilbao

Madrid, Apr. 6.—Driving forward by land and sea in one of the sharpest battles of the war, General Emilio Mola's northern insurgent army hammered toward Bilbao today, as the rebel radio station at Salamanca claimed the city was expected to "surrender."

The insurgent broadcast said the northern rebels were within ten miles of Bilbao and that rebel warships were bombarding the Basque coast from Bilbao to Santander.

The official communique here stated the insurgent attacks in the Coruna Road sector had been repulsed with heavy losses. The enemy retired to disorder and loyalist troops advanced a mile, the statement said.

appealed to the Court. So far as I am concerned, Jacobs is no better and no worse than Sykes, and I'll give you both one more chance. If you get back here again, you will have to suffer the consequences."

Judge Keller directed Sykes to turn over his automobile driver's license to Sheriff Gwinner for the present, and if he gets a job that necessitates using a car, arrangements can be made to get the license back.

Charles Otto, 34, of Frankford avenue, Philadelphia, a huckster, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller to a charge of taking part in the theft of a radio and an electric clock last November. Archie Sivel, of Philadelphia, who, the Court was informed, has a long criminal record, will be tried on the same charge later. The Court deferred sentence until Sivel has been tried. Otto was arrested by County Detective Anthony Russo, of Bristol.

Judge Keller deferred sentence on Franklin Serrill, 19, Hattboro, charged with taking part in the theft of 200 chickens from the farm of Harry Schump, Warminster township, on February 21. Serrill was arrested by Corporal John Herman, of the Doylestown sub-station of State Police. Serrill informed Judge Keller that he had never been arrested before. Louis Huber, another Hattboro youth, is charged with the same offense. Serrill's sentence was deferred until Huber's case comes before the Court.

Drunken Drivers

Drunken drivers were among the defendants who pleaded guilty before Judge Keller yesterday.

George F. Marko, Berwick, Pa., salesman for an advertising concern, pleaded guilty to driving while drunk in Doylestown. He was fined $200 and costs and given a prison sentence of 26 days which he already had served.

Clarence E. Gruver, of Southampton, pleaded guilty to driving while drunk on the Old York Road on March 29. He was fined $200 and costs.

Miss Isabel O'Kane, a domestic for a prominent Chestnut Hill family, pleaded guilty to driving while drunk on the way home from Trenton when she was accompanied by her "boy friend," whom she said "owned the car out had the rams" at the time. She admitted drinking three highballs in Trenton. Judge Keller imposed a fine of $200 and costs but remarked that in his opinion Miss O'Kane should not "take the rap for the man who was with her."

George Fallis, of Kingston, N. J., pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Keller to a charge of driving while drunk in Morrisville on March 24, when he was arrested by Chief of Police Albert Cooper. He was fined $200 and costs and sentenced to 15 days in the Bucks County Prison from the day of commitment.

The following divorces were granted by Judge Keller: Alice W. Tomlinson, Doylestown, against Edward N. Tomlinson, Doylestown, desertion.

George Webster, Danboro, against Margaret Webster, Fountainville, desertion.

THE PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD SUMMARY OF ANNUAL REPORT FOR 1936

THE 90th Annual Report of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company covering operations for 1936 will be presented to the stockholders at the annual meeting on April 13, 1937. The report shows that total operating revenues increased over 1935 by $73,613,003 or 30%, but continued subnormal, being 34% below the annual average for 1925-1930. Operating expenses increased $50,987,517 (due principally to increased business and larger expenditures for necessary current maintenance and to improve the general condition of the road and equipment). Net income was $18,742,001, as compared with $23,062,486 in 1935. Surplus for 1936 was equal to 4.8% upon the outstanding Capital Stock as compared with 3.8% in 1935. Surplus per share (par $50) was $2.38 as compared with $1.38 in 1935.

"IT'S SWELL TO BE OUT OF THE 'ALL THREE' CLASS"

"I'M STEPPING OUT IN A BIG BEAUTIFUL NASH —AND IT COST ME ONLY A FEW DOLLARS MORE* THAN ONE OF THOSE SMALLER CARS!"

R. I. Smith of Chicago is just one of the thousands who are getting out of the "all three" class... changing to this bigger, smarter Nash!

When R. I. Smith started out to buy a new car, he looked at the "All Three" cars... then saw Nash, drove it, priced it...

"I got the surprise of my life," said Mr. Smith, "when I found that a big Nash LaFayette 400" 2-door sedan delivered for only a few dollars more than the similarly equipped 2-door sedan of one of the 'All Three' small cars."

*FOR AS LITTLE AS $1 OR $2 A MONTH EXTRA you can get out of the "All Three" class. A check-up recently made in ten representative cities shows that the Nash LaFayette 400" 4-Door Sedan with trunk DELIVERS for just a FEW dollars more than the similarly equipped 4-door sedans of the "All Three" small cars. In many places, the SLIGHT difference in price amounts to just $1 or $2 a month extra on your time payments.

Ask about convenient terms, low rates available through Nash C. I. T. Budget plan. Automatic Cruising Gear available on all Nash models at slight extra cost.
